

Much reduced from its former size and power, KOATIA is not much more than the surroundings of its only remaining city, Galadon. The valley to the north of Riverwood is now ruled by Illraithe, the Southfields are maintained only by paying the lord of Dothan Hill, the pass to the west is controlled by the bandits of Gaet, and the east is troubled by raids from Thrangmar. Galadon includes about 50,000 people, mostly human and human-integrated half-elves. The ruler is King Cerydwin, who has strong ties to the true-elves of Therrindur and the Stewards of Thale, as well as providing a home for the Yanari mages, who have aided the realm to resist rule from Illraithe.

