Concept:

Detective working for a "Special Cases Unit" (think Law & Order). Divorced, no kids. Ex-husband is on the Force too. Fed up with seeing what she perceives as "monsters" getting away due to lack of strong court evidence or even enough evidence to build a case. Not out just to kill them, but to make them suffer in agony (before killing them, that is, which is most of the time). Most of her Motifs are objects she purposefully leaves at the site of the killings (e.g. a literally popped cherry, a bitten apple).
